

1. National Theatre @ Home.

<https://www.nationaltheatre.org.uk/nt-at-home>

Each Thursday the National Theatre is allowing one of their productions to be available for watching at home (for free).

2. Royal Opera House - YouTube

<https://www.youtube.com/user/RoyalOperaHouse>

Current program = The Royal Opera and The Royal Ballet present Wayne McGregor's production of Handel's Acis and Galatea as part of the Royal Opera House's #OurHouseToYourHouse series every Friday night.

3. Bolshoi Ballet - YouTube

Bolshoi Ballet site is in Russian. Should be able to work out how to play the programs and you can use a translation program to convert the web page text.

4. Royal Shakespeare Company's Culture in Quarantine

As part of the BBC's plans to keep bringing arts to audiences, you will be able to watch six RSC productions over the next few weeks. Exact details of the times and dates are yet to be released. Not clear if this will be online or on the TV.

5. Shakespeare's Globe

From 6 April, Shakespeare's Globe Theatre will be releasing six free films including Hamlet, Romeo and Juliet, A Midsummer Night's Dream, The Winter's Tale, The Two Noble Kinsmen and The Merry Wives of Windsor. The dates for these are not yet released.

BE AWARE – This is a PAY per View service – so you normally pay to watch, but the information we have is that they will not charge for these 6 films.
